Very Large.

A half dozen more rowboats were caught in the storm on the lake, but their occupants were all rescued by life savers and park policemen. Twenty bathers at Edgewater park who took shelter in the bathhouse were buried when the roof fell on them. George Richards, aged 14, and Frank Reinberger, aged 11, were so seriously injured that they will probably die. E. A. Wright had both legs broken when a wagon was blown on him. BOY KILLED
PLAYMATE

Confession Was Made by New York Youth To-day

HE HAD FIRST DENIED IT

Body of John Miale Had Lain in Coal
Bin for 24 Hours and Was Taken
Out When His Mother Was Shown the Location.

New York, June 1.—Not until Carmine Piombino broke down to-day and said he fired the fatal shot were the police able to decide which of four boys, from 10 to 14 years old, was responsible for the death of John Miale, their playmate. The Miale boy's body was found last night in the Italian quarter. His playmates were arrested, and while they admitted he had been killed by one of them, each claimed his innocence. Piombino said the shooting was accidental.

The body was found, with a bullet hole in the breast, lying in the coalbin of a house on Cherry street, where it had lain for 24 hours. A rough burly bag skinned the little body. He lived just across the street from the place. Piombino, who said he saw another boy shoot Miale, led the dead boy's mother to the coal bin. Piombino declared that Andrew Leone had done the shooting, and the latter, when arrested at midnight, accused Piombino of the shooting. Later two other boys were arrested as witnesses.

FORGERY IS ALLEGED.

William N. Hardy, or Johnson, Arrested in Burlington.

Burlington, June 1.—A much-wanted man is thought to be William N. Hardy or Johnson, as the Boston police say they know him and who is now in Chittenden county jail, where he was placed yesterday noon by Sheriff J. H. Allen, who arrested him at the Van Ness house. The man is looked up on suspicion of having committed a forgery.

Hardy came to the Van Ness house a week or more ago and purported to be a traveling representative of the Tremont Rubber company of Boston. He had note books, order books and all of the other things which a traveling man usually carries and it was all marked with the name of the company and, as the company is known to be very strong, it was an easy matter for him to pass a check for his board. The check, given to the clerk, was for $45, and as the bill was only $19, the balance was returned to him in cash.

The check was deposited in the bank and when it got to Boston the people there immediately telegraphed the Chittenden County Trust company that it was no good. Meanwhile strange to say, Hardy had lingered about the hotel, it is thought because he was in love with a girl in town. About the time that Col. Woodbury received the information that the check was of no use, a telephone message came from Boston. Mr. Taylor, one of the officers of the American Bankers' association, said that he had no doubt that Hardy was the man for whom they had been looking for some time. Over the phone he gave a minute description of the man and the description tallied in every particular with that of Hardy. Mr. Taylor said that he was known to them by the name of Johnson.

The man was then at dinner and Mr. Woodbury telephoned State's Attorney H. B. Shaw, who said that the man could be held on suspicion and Sheriff Allen was despatched on the case. When Hardy came out he was told by Mr. Woodbury that his check was not good and that he would have to settle for it. This he did at once although he said that he had cashed hundreds of them and all had been good and he thought it strange. As soon as he had paid his check Sheriff Allen who had been in sight all the time, stepped up and placed him under arrest.

Word from the rubber company says that no check ever been in the employ, although Hardy claims to have been working for them for over four years. He is a young man of not over 28 years of age and is wanted, according to the Boston despatch, in Portsmouth, N. H., Portland, Me., Hartford, Conn., Boston and Worcester, Mass., and a number of other places. His home is said to be in Beverly, Mass. The checks were all made out in the name of the Tremont Rubber company to W. N. Hardy and endorsed by him.

TOOK STRYCHNINE.

Maxime Seymour of Winooski Dead.—
Another Almost Fatal Poisoning.

Winooski, June 1.—Maxime Seymour of 327 Weaver street committed suicide last evening at 9:15 o'clock by taking strychnine tablets. The bottle containing the tablets originally held 100 and 57 were left in it, so it is not known how many he took. As no druggist will sell such a number, it is thought that he must have taken the bottle from a druggist's shelves. He was said to be a heavy drinker and despondency due to this is supposed to have been the cause of his act. Dr. F. A. Heath was summoned but the man was dead when he arrived at the house. Health Officer J. G. Thabault and Selectman H. B. Carpenter were also summoned. Seymour was a mason, but had not had work of late. He was 38 years old and is survived by a wife and six children, the eldest, Maxine, 15 years old, attending college at Farnham, P. Q., and Anthony, Berlie, Anna, Alvin and Emory. Last Monday Mrs. Cateract was away helping one of her daughters. On her return home she found Mr. Cateract ill. The next morning a doctor was summoned, but the man was beyond medical aid and he confessed to taking the paris green but because of previous threats of suicide, his statement was not believed.

TRAINS KILL
AND MAIM

Two Accidents in Central Vermont Yards at St. Albans

GEORGE E. CLIFFORD DEAD

Harry Staples, Victim in Other Accident, Is in Hospital With Badly Crushed Arm and Severe Bruises.

St. Albans, June 1.—Two accidents, one of them fatal, occurred in the "Italy" freight yards of the Central Vermont railroad in this city last night. George E. Clifford, a Central yard master, was killed in one accident and Harry Staples, who was not a railroad employee, was seriously hurt in the other.

The former accident happened at an early hour this morning when Clifford was engaged with other employees in shifting cars. He went out on a string of cars and when he did not return within reasonable time the other members of the crew went back after him, sending their engine slowly back, they found the body beside the track, both legs and one arm being broken, the back of the head smashed in, and the back broken. His injuries were such that death must have been instantaneous. The body will be buried at Green's Corner, and the funeral service will be held to-morrow afternoon.

The other accident happened at 9:30 last night. At that time the clerk in the "Italy" yard heard cries of "Help!" "Help!" On investigation the clerk found Staples, with one arm badly smashed and much bruised. Staples was carried to the hospital. There were no witnesses to this accident, or to the other. Since Staples was not employed by the railroad it is supposed that he went to the railroad yard to get shelter from the storm and wandered onto the track in front of the north-bound freight train.

FIGHT EVIDENCES
SEEN BY WITNESS

Told in Trial of Casper M. Smith, Who
Is Charged With Murder of Daniel
C. Mundell.

Newfane, June 1.—One of the final witnesses to be called by the prosecution in the trial of Casper M. Smith, charged with the murder of Daniel C. Mundell in Wardsboro on April 27 was Deputy Sheriff E. M. Pitts, who arrested Smith at his home in Wardsboro on the morning of the murder. Deputy Pitts told of going to the Smith home and described the appearance of the rooms. He said that it was evident that there had been a strenuous fight. It is alleged that the "revolver" which it is alleged that Smith killed Mundell, and also placed an exhibition in the courtroom two revolver bullets, which the witness said he dug out of the woodwork of the kitchen.

Smith's own story of the affair was told yesterday by Miss Ethel Millington of Brattleboro, the state's attorney's stenographer. Miss Millington accompanied the state attorney to the scene of the shooting on the day following the alleged murder, and took down in shorthand the statement made by Smith.

According to the report read by Miss Millington, Mundell was 61 years old and was employed by the defendant, who operated a maple sugar plant. A few days prior to the shooting, Smith took a load of sugar and syrup to sell in the southern part of this state and in Massachusetts. He told his wife that he would not be home for a week.

According to the stenographic report he returned home earlier than he expected and found immoral relations between his wife and Mundell. Mundell seized a stick of cordwood and attacked the defendant. In the scuffle that ensued Smith secured his revolver and fired in self-defense.

In opening its case, counsel for Smith stated that the defense would show that the defendant acted in self-defense. Five witnesses were called at the afternoon session and all testified that Smith has always been a peaceable, hardworking, industrious man.

For Many Years Prominent Business Man Died Last Evening.

Harry W. Whitcomb, a well-known resident of Barre and for years a prominent business man, passed away at 8 o'clock last evening at 258 in the Vermont State Library.

Harry Wendell Whitcomb was born in Barre, May 22, 1858, son of Lyman W. and Mariah (Noyes) Whitcomb. He received his early education in the schools of the town and later attended Goddard seminary, from which institution he was graduated, in 1881. He first entered into business as a proprietor of a granite quarry in the Preston, Whitcomb Quarry company, which did business for six years. In 1880 he entered into partnership with his brother, Friend N. In addition to this business, the firm, together with Charles Bond, purchased 70 acres of quarry land on Millstone hill where they developed into a fine quarry. This was sold three years ago to D. M. Miles. After dissolving partnership with his brother, he was employed for some time as traveling salesman for the Bliss Tool company of Brooklyn, N. TWO SUITS BROUGHT
TOTALING $16,000

George Libersant Defendant in Two Actions Brought by Executors of W.
S. Littlejohn Estate in County Court.

Two suits, in which George Libersant is defendant, have just been entered in Washington county court, having been brought by F. G. Howland and Alex. Gordon as executors of the W. S. Littlejohn estate. The first is general assumpsit and the amount named is $6,000. The second suit is a foreclosure on quarry land which Libersant purchased from Littlejohn & Milne in 1908, the amount in this action being $10,000. Libersant was recently in county court on an action for alleged contempt of court in failing to pay alimony to his wife, according to the court's order. The defendant then pleaded that the property was so tied up that he couldn't operate it; hence he asked for a receiver, George Straiton being appointed.

HORSE AND PLATE GLASS.

Wanderings of the Former Prove Disastrous to the Latter.

The two large plate glass windows on the Main and Pearl street corner of the Surprise Merchandise store came in for another rude jolt this forenoon, and for a second time within a month the casings must be fitted with new glass. B. L. Hartson, a book agent from New York, says he stepped into the Arcade block for a few moments and left his horse standing unattended at the curb directly in front of the building. During his absence, the animal was evidently seized with the wander-lust and started out Pearl street. Reaching the corner, the hub of a wheel came in contact with an awning fixture that follows the window from the ground up, bending it in such a way as to crack the glass of each plate. The horse then proceeded as far as the hotel office, where a passer-by stopped him.

Manager Seger of the Surprise Co. was notified and after a casual investigation of the affair, he notified the insurance company. Windows at this particular place of business have been broken several times by teams or the jostling of the crowd and seem to be a favorite target for everything that passes that way. It is understood that the windows will be replaced with new glass at once.

ADD 5 CENTS
TO TAX RATE

City Council Fixed 1911 Assessment at $2.35 Last Night

TWO MEMBERS OBJECTING

Mayor Mutch Thinking It Ought to Be Less and Alderman Thurston Declaring
More Was Needed If Proposed
Expenditures Are Carried Out.

The tax rate of the city this year will be $2.35, an increase of five cents over last year. This rate was fixed by the city council in special session last evening after the question had been under discussion for two hours. The motion to adopt the resolution, fixing the tax rate at $2.35, which was adopted at the meeting held Monday night and later reconsidered so that the resolution might be held for a special session, was seconded by Alderman Rossi and was seconded by Alderman Brown. The vote on the resolution was taken last night by roll call, which resulted in 5 for adoption and 2 against it. Alderman Thurston and the mayor being the two opposing voters.

This vote stood exactly the same as Monday night's vote on the adoption of the resolution, and in the discussion last night Alderman Thurston stated that he voted no because he knew that even a $2.35 tax was not high enough to cover the expenses of all the work that has already been mapped out to be done this year, and he thought the council should decide on what expenses they could cut out before they voted on the adoption of a tax rate if they wanted a low rate. The mayor said that he voted no because he wanted a $2.30 rate, and he still thought it could be done.

That the council might know more definitely what their income would be on the grand list this year the city clerk presented figures showing that the real estate personal property and poll tax grand list totaled $53,155.72. The clerk said that when the finance committee made up its estimate of a 1911 census account for 1911 they based it on last year's grand list which was $52,378.92, plus the additional amount which increased the valuation of the real estate by $106,410. The decrease in the taxable personal property, however, had offset this increase in real estate to the extent
